Whether you are an independent agent or the member of a large real estate association, having the ability to store, manage and share a wide variety of documents and business-critical data for long periods of time is vital to your success. The loss of such irreplaceable data such as appointment records, contact lists, and contracts could have long-term and devastating consequences. In order to ensure immediate access to accurate and consistent data, a reliable and cost-effective data backup system must be implemented.

Storage Protection Services (SPS) offers a highly secure backup solution that guarantees the integrity and immediate availability of all critical data in the event of a server crash, human error, natural disaster, or any data loss catastrophe. With the SPS backup service, data is fully encrypted at the source and maintained in this secured state throughout the entire backup process to ensure complete privacy of all data. Once full data encryption has been achieved, the encrypted files are transferred over a secure Internet connection. SPS then stores the password protected backup at our remote data center. If data loss occurs, the SPS system enables instant restoration of all retained backups for seamless business continuity.

The most important asset a real estate professional can have is their data. SPS Remote Backup offers a reliable and secure backup solution that utilizes multiple layers of security to ensure documents and databases are protected against loss or corruption due to a server crash, human error, viruses, natural disaster, or any other unforeseen emergency.

SPS provides full backup encryption throughout the entire backup and restore process. Unless authorized by the client, no one, not even SPS technicians, can access data, since it is protected by an encryption key unique to each client.

Whether the data is centralized on a server, or resides on laptops (either in the office or roaming in the field) and desktops, the unique architecture allows protected data without expensive per client licensing. This, along with the reliability of disk-to-disk backups and simpler administration, lowers the overall cost of data protection, and increases that protection.

Offsite backups coupled with the option for local backups ensures that the data is available for the fastest restore possible. Real Estate Professionals can have peace of mind with the knowledge that their data is secure and available for full or partial restores when they need it.

Storage Protection Service Remote Backup was designed to be simple and automatic easing the burden of backup related tasks. With encryption and the reliable nature of disk-to-disk backups, data is secure and available.
